O Mother Earth! Why Can't We Witness Darkness Sap Our Soul's Native Will for Truth and Joy

(Artist: Hans Zatzka Date: 1859-1945)

O mother earth! Why can't we witness darkness sap our soul's native will for truth and joy.

Why can't we witness light and love enveloped by the cloaked dangerous spells of darkness.

Why does our being turn away from the brilliant nature of the gods.

Why do we succumb to the fallen angels and the misleading suns.

Why do we succumb to the danger and charm of the dark lord.

Why do we succumb to the perverse sweetness of the dark lord.

Why do we succumb to the heaven born maleficence.

O mother earth! Why can't we witness darkness sap our soul's native will for truth and joy.

O mother earth! Why can't we witness darkness sap our soul's native will for truth and joy.

Why can't we witness the power of darkness deform the divinest things.

Why can't we witness the wind of sorrow that breath's upon the world.

Why can't we witness darkness besiege all our thoughts with falsehood.

Why can't we witness darkness stamp all our acts with defect or with frustration's sign.

Why can't we witness darkness stamp all high attempts with failure or vain success.

Why can't we witness darkness as the real reason of our fall.

O mother earth! Why can't we witness darkness sap our soul's native will for truth and joy.

O mother earth! Why can't we witness darkness sap our soul's native will for truth and joy.

Why can't we hear the whisperings of the grey mask of darkness.

Why can't we witness darkness sow its seed in our ignorant hearts.

Why can't we witness darkness compel our hearts to bear the black fruit of suffering and death.

Why can't we witness darkness emerge out of the chill steppes of a bleak unseen.

Why can't we witness darkness that approaches unseen wearing the night's grey mask.

Why can't we witness darkness arrive as a shadowy dreadful messenger.

O mother earth! Why can't we witness darkness sap our soul's native will for truth and joy.

(Artist: Hans Zatzka Date: 1859-1945)

O mother earth! Why can't we witness darkness sap our soul's native will for truth and joy.

Why can't we witness darkness as invader from a dangerous world of evil power.

Why can't we witness darkness as ambassador of evil's absolute.

Why can't we witness the inaudible voices that speak in silence of the darkness.

Why can't we witness the invisible hand of darkness plant the fatal grain.

Why can't we witness darkness accomplish its dire work.

Why can't we witness darkness write its iron decree in crooked uncials.

O mother earth! Why can't we witness darkness sap our soul's native will for truth and joy.

O mother earth! Why can't we witness darkness sap our soul's native will for truth and joy.

Why can't we witness darkness impose its law of sin and adverse fate.

Moon Tarot Card Meanings: This kind of intensity laces all of the Moon Tarot card meanings. This is one of the few cards that is a story in-and-of-itself, and tells it from start to finish in one flash. We see the Moon, forever our illusive guide through all the distractions. But is she a help or a ? When she is in her growth we feel ourselves expand in confidence with her. We can even become pregnant with our own importance when she is in her prime fullness. When she is waning, we feel ourselves shrink into the abyss of darkness, we grow unsure of our path and purpose. We may find ourselves confused at every turn. Bat: The Mayan word for bat is "zotz." The bat is representative of the guardian of the Underworld. Also a dubious symbol, rich in dualities, worshipped for its rule over the darkness, and a powerful sign to mark against enemies. Mayans drew a very faint line between our concept of good and evil. Meaning, good and evil was seen in totality rather than marked separation. As such, the bat was worshipped for both its dark and light qualities. Pictured here is the Central American Long-Nosed Bat. It was common to the area, and seen in Mayan glyphs. (Source: <http://www.whats-your-sign.com>).
